WOOSTER SPIRIT AROUSED

Unprecedented Demonstrations Before and After Oberlin Game

The most chronic knocker could have nothing to say about the lack of spirit in Wooster after the remarkable demonstrations of student enthusiasm last Thursday and Friday evenings and at the Oberlin game Saturday afternoon. If there was a man, woman or child in Wooster who did not know Friday evening that Wooster expected to beat Oberlin the next day, and who did not know on Saturday afternoon after the game that the expectation had been realized in the fullest sense, it was not the fault of the students.

Thursday evening in Taylor Auditorium was held the first of the series of rallies. There was a large turn out, both of men, and girls from the dorm and town. Speeches were made by Profs. Wolfe and Knight and Coach Skeel, yells and songs were practiced and preparations made for the parade Friday. Director St. John was prevented from attending by a telephone call from W. and J. for his services as referee. Promptly at 6:15 on Friday evening about 400 students gathered at the foot of College Avenue. A large number of these were girls, who made their presence known by "Te-deke's" and "Alagarou's," just as enthusiastic if not quite as noisy as their brothers were able to produce. Then headed by the band, which played as it never played before, and carrying torches, lanterns, pennants, horns, and colors the procession formed and marched four abreast down Market Street to the square. Here the band mounted the stand, and after it had exhausted its repertoire and incidentally its wind, the whole crowd gave the Wooster yells and sang the songs as one man. Speeches were made by Hon. John McSweeney and Prof. Wolfe, after which the procession re-formed, and marching east on Liberty and up Buckeye, disbanded at the place where it had started. Prof. Wolfe said that it was without doubt the greatest student demonstration since the days of '90, when Wooster cleaned up the State in football.

The crowd at the game Saturday, augmented by the large number of alumni present, soon overflowed the stands and demonstrated conclusively the inadequate seating accommodations. A more enthusiastic crowd is seldom seen, and when it was seen that the Black and Gold was sure to win, joy knew no limits. After the game a procession was hastily formed, and marched down town, shouting the glad news of 13 to 0 over the Crimson and Gold. The rain in the evening spoiled the plans for a bonfire and further celebration, but perhaps it was a good thing for tired throats to get a much needed rest. The streets downtown, however, were thronged with students all evening, discussing the victory and playing the game all over again. There is a general feeling of confidence, that if the enthusiasm awakened by this game is not allowed to die out, that the team can't lose, and the two remaining games on the schedule, Heidelberg and O. S. U., will be fought to the death.

Wooster Alumnus in China

The following is an extract from a letter written to Mrs. A. A. Good of Wooster by Rev. J. M. Espey, '02, who is now stationed at Shanghai, and is interesting in that it goes to show some of the difficulties under which a missionary to the celestial kingdom must labor:

"It is now nearly nine months since I reached Shanghai, just after the riots. And of course you know what crowded months they have been. Luther said that the devil invented the Chinese language to keep the Gospel out of China. It is not that bad, but it takes a tremendous lot of work and prayer with but slow apparent progress. But these have been some of the happiest months of my life and I am sure they have been the busiest. The language is coming along nicely and I feel that in time I can get a mastery of it enough to come into touch with the common people. The first two years are supposed to be for uninterrupted language study, but I hope in a week or two to have a bible class in English, for some of the Chinese of about my own age who understand English, but who at present are not very regular attendants at church. The rest of the missionaries at South Gate are very pleasant to associate with and I feel that my lines have fallen in very pleasant places.

Five hours of the day I spend with Chinese teachers and by that time my throat has turned enough summersaults to want a good rest. The tones are the greatest difficulty—some of the sounds in themselves are difficult, but care will master these—the tone problem seems to be that of almost building up another self in expression. The tone for a sentence in English plays havoc with the Chinese sounds, and if one does not master this in the first two years I am afraid he never will—he will be understood more or less but never certain. The writing and reading and the idiom are all immense in their extent, but not intrinsically difficult—any one with patience will master them.

One learns a good many valuable lessons in these months of hard study, and idleness as far as active Christian work is concerned. One of these is the power in prayer. As I wrote home, it works more certainly than the Pacific cable.

We had such a splendid visit from Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston. Even the little children in the kindergarten were much impressed with his talk—though it had to be through an interpreter. He told us some intensely interesting and helpful incidents about his visit to Evan Roberts. He has prayer covenants with both him and Mr. S. D. Gordon.

Your Sincere friend,
John Morton Espey."

"Man's Sufficient Answer," was the topic of last week's meeting, and under the leadership of Henry Geddes, a very interesting and helpful presentation of the subject was made. The leader began his remarks by aptly referring to the wonderful completeness of man's power over nature, and the use he has made of it, and yet even all this eventually fades into insignificance in comparison with God's dominating influence. The keynote of the evening's thought was that Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today and forever, is the only and all sufficient answer to all the perplexing questions which confront a man,—the questions of the individual and social struggle, the questions of the existence of God, of the immortality of the soul, and of sin. He cited words from Carlyle, Gladstone, Mill and Arnold to show what the master minds have considered the only solution of such questions, and they all agree that it centers in Jesus Christ. The meeting was characterized by the large attendance, extra chairs being made use of. Such attendance bodes well for the future, and the hope is that every man will feel it his duty to help keep it up.

Y. W. C. A.

The meeting last Wednesday was a very interesting one. After the scripture reading by the leader, Miss Boyce, Mrs. Forman, from India, addressed the girls telling them of the various ways in which efforts are being made to help the Hindu women. She spoke particularly of the medical work and the work in the villages.

During the coming week there will be a short meeting each evening at 6:15, and the girls are cordially invited to attend.

Oratorio Course

The latest departure of the Oratorio Chorus of the University is the plan to arrange the three concerts of the year into a course. It has been the custom to present a heavy Oratorio on the evening of Dec. 11, the anniversary of the fire; another at the close of the winter term; and the third during Commencement week. This plan will be followed this year, and Director Erb is planning for three first-class concerts. The first of these, occurring on Dec. 11, will consist of Handel's "Messiah," and excellent soloists have been secured, so that the public can be assured of a splendid production.

The three concerts will now be given for $1.00, without extra charge for reserved seats. The single admissions will be 50 cents, reserved seat included.

The course tickets will be placed on sale at once, and can be obtained from student solicitors or from the University treasurer. It is hoped that this new plan will meet with the support of the student body and the public of Wooster and the surrounding towns.

A Word from the Business Manager

Hardly a day passes but what some student subscriber writes to have the VOICE discontinued to his or her address. The management is always ready to discontinue the paper to anyone's address, provided that remittance for copies already received accompanies the request for discontinuance. But instead of remitting the $1.25 for the year's subscription, some request that the paper be discontinued to their address, fail to remit for past copies received, and then read someone else's copy. The paper trust has twice advanced the price of paper within the last three weeks and those who borrow the paper of their neighbors evidently are of the opinion that the printer's bills can be paid for in snowballs. The business manager of the VOICE within the last few years who remarked that he would not do the work again for six times the compensation received, evidently knew what he was talking about. Student managers of other college papers when told how small our subscription list is, wonder how we can manage to meet our printing bills at all. Much kindly criticism has reached our ears concerning the political advertisements which appeared in our issue last week. If more students would support the paper instead of reading it second-hand it would not only be possible to omit all undesirable advertising but in fact have a weekly which would reflect the true standing of Wooster U.

Archaeology Lecture

Quite a number from the student body assembled in Severance Hall last Tuesday evening and heard the third lecture in Archaeology.

Prof. Seelye lectured in a pleasing manner and much interest was manifest. The lecture highly interested his class as well as a number of the students not belonging to the class.

The next lecture will illustrate the "Period of Maturity" and promises to be the most interesting of the course.

The moving picture show on East Liberty street is giving up-to-date programs each evening. A new show every other night.

OBERLIN AGAIN HUMBLLED

WOOSTER'S GOAL LINE STILL UNTOUCHED

Varsity Does Great Work

Before the largest crowd in recent years on the University field Oberlin was defeated for the second successive time last Saturday. Oberlin was out played in every stage of the game and Wooster without any great difficulty sustained her record of not being scored against this year. The big enthusiasm meetings of Thursday and Friday and the general good spirits and confidence brot out a crowd of nearly seven hundred which gave the best exhibition of concerted and effective rooting that Wooster has ever seen. Ideal football weather, the big crowd, the rooting, the clean lively game, the decisive victory and all, contributed to make the Oberlin game the best home game of the year.

The Oberlin squad came first onto the field and started the rooting with their appearance and signal work. In a few minutes Capt. Thompson led in the Wooster bunch and the excitement began in earnest. Oberlin won the toss and chose to defend the west goal. A little before 2:30 Kelly kicked off and the ball was downed where it fell. Oberlin was then held for two plays and forced to punt. Garvin received the punt and ran it back 8 yds. to the 45 yd. line; two plays then brot a first down and an onside kick another first down, a fumble lost five yards and Hatfield tried a drop kick from the 30 yd. line. The ball was directly in line but fell short. Oberlin tried to punt but was blocked and the ball was downed back of the line for a safety, after four minutes of play. Score, Wooster 2; Oberlin 0.

Houser kicked out for Oberlin and Wooster lost the ball on a forward pass. Oberlin then lost in the same way after being held in two plays. Hatfield and Garvin each bucked for six yards making a first down, after two more bucks Compton punted for sixty yards the ball going over the heads of the Oberlin backs. Lehmann ran down and recovered the ball on Oberlin's ten yard line putting it over for a touch-down. Hatfied missed an easy goal, the ball striking the upright. Score, Wooster 7, Oberlin 0, after 8 minutes and 50 seconds of play. Oberlin kicked off to Compton who ran it back sixteen yards and then fumbled but Hatfield recovered the ball. After two plays Compton missed a bad pass for a punt and was downed for a loss which gave up the ball on the 30 yd. line. Oberlin worked a forward pass for a first-down and then tried a place kick on the 20 yd. line. This was as close as Oberlin came to scoring, for nearly the entire line broke thru and blocked the kick. Before the half closed both sides lost the ball several times on forward passes and fumbles with Wooster fumbling the most. Hatfield made a 30 yd. run and Garvin another first down on a forward pass. The half ended with the ball in Oberlin's territory; score 7-0, Wooster making five first downs and Oberlin one.

Oberlin kicked off at the second half to Garvin who returned fifteen yards. An exchange of punts followed, Wooster fumbled one but Jacobs recovered it at a dangerous place. Wooster fumbled again and Oberlin took the ball on our ten yard line. Here Oberlin tried one of their trick forward passes but Hayes jumped for the ball and made forty yards with Tate assisting. An exchange of punts and on side kicks followed in which McSweeney and Compton distinguished themselves in recovering the ball. Overholt took Garvin's place at this time. Oberlin advanced the ball into Wooster's field on a forward pass. Overholt made twenty yards on a fake punt and then thirty five more on an end run. Overholt then bucked for eight yards McSweeney and Lehman each for a gain and Overholt again for a touch down after 12 minutes and a half of the second half. Compton punted out, Overholt made the catch and Hatfield kicked goal. Score Wooster 13, Oberlin 0.

After the touch down Oberlin sent in one new man and kicked off to Hatfield who ran back for seventeen yards. In the play following punts were numerous. Campbell made several nice recoveries from kicks and punts and Tate and Kelly were exceptionally strong on bucks and tackling. Before the game closed Steele went in at quarter and Scovel and J. Garvin attends. Garvin took Compton's place in fine style, on one play punting and then getting down to tackle. In the last few minutes of play Wooster was penalized 15 yards for holding and Oberlin half the distance to the goal for a like offence. The second half ended with the ball in Oberlin's field, Wooster making five first downs and Oberlin one.

NOTES ON THE GAME

The victory was well earned. Every man out played his opponent and was in the game from start to finish. Overholt showed his old style again on end runs and returning punts. Hatfield, Garvin and McSweeney were the consistent ground gainers on bucks. Tate and Kelly were handicapped by a sudden interpretation of the rules that allowed them to carry the ball only from the line position. This was a serious loss in this particular game but Kelly played the most consistent game on defence that we have yet seen. The game was remarkable for the few penalties and little time taken out. Coach Snyder claims to have been weakened by the loss of Waters and attributes the defeat to his absence and the poor condition of three other players. He says it was one of the finest and cleanest games he ever saw.

Coach Skeel said, "First, I want to say that I am pleased with the way the crowd supported the team. It shows what good rooting can do towards winning. The team has played better and can improve before the State game. We won because we had a shifting defence formed for their particular style of play."

The crowd said all they could and when their voices gave out they made motions.

It was a glorious finish for the home games. It is great to beat Oberlin again and greater yet to get into the game and help turn the trick.

Some statistics of the game; Oberlin made on straight football thirty-nine yards; on forward passes thirty, on returning punts forty-five. Wooster made on straight football 223, on forward passes 37, on returning punts 70.

The Week of Prayer

To those who are not new to college life it is unnecessary to give any information or announcement of the annual week of prayer which began Sunday. The man or woman who has been at Wooster for one, two, or three years and has participated in as many such weeks, has no need to be reminded of the inspiration, the uplift of being led to the very mountain tops of spiritual quickening by consecrated men during the meetings of those weeks. But to a new student, the week of prayer is perhaps, only so many words, for it is a new experience for him, something with whose influence he has not come in contact before, and with whose purpose he is more or less unfamiliar.

The first thing to be noticed about it, is its universality. Wooster is not alone in this observance. All over this land colleges are offering up prayers during this week of consecration, and this fact alone is enough to make the average man stop and devote a little thought to the question, "What part am I to have in all this?"

Like most other things, an individual gets out of the week of prayer largely in proportion to what he puts into it. Every aid will be given to make it easy for each one to get the fullest measure of good from the meetings to be held for one hour each evening. The faculty will pursue the usual custom of lightening school work, and there is no excuse if a man or woman really wishes to get what good there is in it for him or her. We are certainly to be envied in having a man like Dr. Scovel to conduct the meetings, for with his richness of experience, his fullness of consecration and powers of intellect and heart, who could be better fitted to bring to us the great truths which we all need to know, and of which no man ever knew too much? The Y. W. C. A. is holding meetings every night for the girls of the university, class and club prayer meetings are being held, and the man or woman who can resist such an atmosphere, does it only by deliberately fighting against it. To each one the call comes this week to cast aside for a time other less important considerations, and consider the most important question of all. Open your heart, and see what God has to say to you.

A Square Deal

One of the advantages which a college or university in a large city enjoys is the fact that the metropolitan newspapers are constantly giving them the advantages of long columns of matter on their athletic events, always being careful to show their preference and give the local schools the best of it in such write-ups. This is no more than natural and right,—the institutions which do so much toward the upbuilding of the cities in which they are located, have a right to expect such support from the press of those cities. But surely the principle of the square deal for every man which Pres. Roosevelt so strongly advocates, ought to rule in this matter as well as in others, and institutions which have to depend on the city press for publicity have a right to expect at least that much from it.

Wooster is one of the last mentioned class, and what knowledge the public in general gets of our part in college affairs it gets thru the Cleveland papers. While a little more recognition has been given us this year than in years past, still the treatment Wooster receives at the hands of the Leader and Plaindealer leaves much to be desired. We do not wish to seem to ask more than we can rightfully claim, but when we have a team such as this year's, which is in the very front rank of Ohio colleges, Big Six or no Big Six, it is no more than just to look for some little recognition. On the occasion of one of the first games of the season, when Wooster played all round a supposedly invincible Cleveland team, the papers mentioned actually did admit in their Sunday editions that the local school was practically beaten, but the next day they began to make excuses and by the end of the week it was conclusively settled that the local school had an off day and played in hard luck, while Wooster's strong showing was due more to an accident than anything else. Such treatment as this is enough to raise a protest anywhere, and we think we are justified in registering a knock against it.

Let's have a square deal!

Historical Romantic Play "When Knighthood Was in Flower" Nov. 15th.

One of the greatest dramatic treats secured for Wooster in several years will be seen on the stage of the City Opera House Nov. 15. "When Knighthood was in Flower," as a novel has been read by thousands, and the stage production is correct in every way as to scenery and equipment, and with a powerful company headed by Miss Grace Merritt, a very handsome young woman of great talent in the title role.

Charles Major wrote "When Knighthood was in Flower" on Sunday afternoons. If there is any truth in the saying "the better the day the better the deed" then this fact may account for the excellence of the book. But the adage does not apply to the presentation of the dramatization of the story by Grace Merritt and her excellent company; this is more than excellent, without its being given on the best day of the week. Mary Tudor is described in the book as "a person of womanly perfection, with skin like velvet, with a voice soft and full, and except when angry which alas was not infrequent, had a low, coaxing note that made it irresistible. An adroit pleader, knowing her power full well, she did not always plead, having the Tudor temper and preferring to command. Grace Merritt is the personification of that description—a real Mary Tudor. She more than gratifies the wish of Charles Major, the author, that he might see his heroine in the flesh, for no more perfect impersonation of Mary could be given than Miss Merritt's delineation of the part.

"A class in boxing has been organized at Ohio Wesleyan. A physical director will be in charge, and the class will be open to all who will furnish their own boxing gloves. Bare knuckle matches are to be barred, for a time at least.

The new move has the full support of the faculty, who are anxious to have as large a variety of sports introduced as possible. It is even rumored that some of the faculty members may be able to show the boys a few stunts with the mitts."

Michigan and Chicago will meet again on the football field next year.

Harvard has selected the following subject for the debate with Yale on December 7th: "Resolved, That further restriction of immigration is undesirable."

Northwestern, Chicago and Michigan will debate the same question this year that Wesleyan, Oberlin and Reserve do.

Hazing has again appeared at the Naval Academy. It seems that the lesson intended to be taught by the court-martial and dismissal last spring has not been long remembered by the midshipmen.

Yost, of Michigan, and Stagg, of Chicago, have issued orders that every candidate must read the football rules at least once every day.

"A number of our exchanges have commented on the law concerning chapel attendance at W. V. U. They express their surprise that students should even be excused from attending chapel, and the fact that anyone should be given credit for such attendance is too much for them. We wish to extend our sympathy to students of other colleges who go into exultation over being excused even from Sunday chapel."

W. V. U. Athenaeum.

The following was taken from the Index of Waitsburg, Washington, and will be of interest to many in Wooster.

"The Music Department is in charge of Miss Nina L. Durstine a graduate of the Wooster Conservatory of Music. Miss Durstine is a young lady of pleasant manners and has many social graces. Her recommendations are the very highest, and we feel that the musical interests are in most capable hands. In addition to her large class, Miss Durstine has charge of the music work of the Public schools. She is a most valuable addition to the faculty of the Waitsburg Academy."

"Buena Vista has a new president, Robert Lincoln Campbell, A. M., D. D. He is a man of noble figure and commanding presence. He is a man of marked personality and no little personal magnetism. He is the man for Buena Vista. * * * * *

As an athlete he is a man of parts, having an athletic record at Wooster that is a proud one. He was a star man on the "Varsity" teams, serving as captain of the football team for three years and as manager of the baseball team for two. * * * His executive ability was recognized early in his career. While at school he was chosen business manager of the Index, the Junior Annual of his class, and in the following year business manager of The Wooster Voice. * Also as an orator, Dr. Campbell has received many honors. He was called upon to represent his college and class. * * *
